Experience:

The workshop has actually taught me a lot honestly. I've learnt how to be able to make a video essay from scratch and it has a good impact, and... the books are quite interesting.

Likes:

I've actually like the book cause yk I've also learnt about mining and how black people were treated in the 19th centuries

Thanks Jade & Sam

Tim Prager Ndazore, I learnt a lot and I loved everything except the amount of little time we had. Plus I would really love to do more videos and I'll try doing a family video. And thank you so much

I love to also do about the plotting and all so I think I'll make a video for that plus that bird video was nice.

love Mrs Jade and Mr Simon

I learnt how to be creative and have fun when doing academic work. Me, a week ago, would be shocked with how much I learnt and how much I love literature essays now. Video essays change my perspective on literature and made it more interesting and fun as I want to become an academic soon.

I Unleashed my Creative Side, all thanks to you

I think that this was very informative; intriguing and grabbed my attention; it taught me the struggles black people faced all over the world. As someone from South Africa never could imagine going to the UK. But happily hope to go there. I'd personally like to thank you guys from coming over, and teaching us.

Today I learned a lot of things about a novel called Mine by Peter Abrahams. Published in 1946 the fact that they were I learned that the story revolves patient and taught us around the life of Xuma, a young black man who leaves his rural village to work in the mines of Johannesburg and Xuma faced harsh realities including poverty, racism and exploitation.

To my future self:

I hope the knowledge that I gained at this lecture was enough to inspire me to continue to pursue my dream of being a film maker, producer & director. I learnt a lot today and I am truly inspired. I hope I get a chance to meet the lecture professor again in future.

What I have learned from today is that you can not expect freedom without being free your self, change can not happen through silence.
Life is filled with hardship and badness but that is not the reason to keep quiet or hide away from the situation
But it is about standing up for what you believe in and acting through better perspectives of the situation

Today I learned quite a lot, I learned what a video essay was and about a book called Mint Boy and it was really educational and it really inspired me on learning what people had to go through. Thank you so much for such an experience.

Thank you all.

I didn't like ~~that~~ that topic about segregation and all. I feel like as a society we are past that and, I would have enjoyed learning about a more modern topic like it.

The workshop has given me methods on how to go about summarising a book based on its themes. It has given me different ways to do this, through writing an essay and producing a video essay (theses).

This helps me put social media to good use. I'll definitely be making more of these.
